

Open-source ERP software is a fantastic option for businesses looking to save costs while maintaining flexibility and control. These tools are often community-driven, meaning they're constantly updated and improved by developers worldwide. Plus, they're highly customizable, so you can tailor them to your specific needs.

1. UniBee Open-Source Billing

UniBee is a versatile SaaS platform designed to simplify business operations, including billing, subscriptions, and customer management. It's perfect for startups and growing businesses looking for an all-in-one solution.

2. Odoo

Odoo is a highly customizable open-source ERP that offers modules for CRM, accounting, inventory, e-commerce, and more. Its modular design allows businesses to scale as needed.

3. ERPNext

ERPNext is a user-friendly, open-source ERP system tailored for small and medium-sized businesses. It includes features for accounting, HR, manufacturing, and project management.

4. Dolibarr

Dolibarr is a lightweight, open-source ERP and CRM solution. It's ideal for freelancers, small businesses, and NGOs, offering tools for invoicing, inventory, and more.

5. Apache OFBiz

Apache OFBiz is a robust open-source ERP framework designed for large enterprises. It includes modules for e-commerce, accounting, and supply chain management.

6. Metasfresh

Metasfresh is a modern, open-source ERP system focused on usability and efficiency. It's great for small to medium-sized businesses and offers features like sales, procurement, and inventory management.

7. Tryton

Tryton is a modular, open-source ERP platform that's highly scalable. It includes modules for accounting, sales, and project management, making it suitable for businesses of all sizes.

8. ERP5

ERP5 is a powerful open-source ERP designed for large enterprises. It's highly customizable and supports industries like manufacturing, retail, and logistics.

9. xTuple

xTuple is an open-source ERP solution tailored for manufacturing and distribution businesses. It offers features for inventory, accounting, and CRM.

10. Compiere

Compiere is a mature open-source ERP and CRM system. It's designed for small to medium-sized businesses and includes tools for accounting, sales, and supply chain management.

11. Openbravo

Openbravo is a cloud-based, open-source ERP system. It's ideal for retail and hospitality businesses, offering features like point-of-sale (POS) and inventory management.

12. ADempiere

ADempiere is a community-driven, open-source ERP system. It's highly customizable and suitable for businesses in manufacturing, retail, and services.

13. iDempiere

iDempiere is a fork of ADempiere, offering a modern, open-source ERP solution. It's designed for scalability and includes features for accounting, CRM, and supply chain management.

14. LedgerSMB

LedgerSMB is an open-source ERP system focused on accounting and financial management. It's ideal for small to medium-sized businesses.

15. OpenERP (Former name of Odoo)

OpenERP was the original name of Odoo. It's a comprehensive open-source ERP system with modules for CRM, accounting, and project management.

16. WebERP

WebERP is a simple, web-based open-source ERP system. It's designed for small businesses and includes features for accounting, inventory, and sales.

17. MixERP

MixERP is a modern, open-source ERP system designed for small to medium-sized businesses. It offers modules for accounting, inventory, and HR.

18. FrontAccounting

FrontAccounting is a lightweight, open-source ERP system. It's ideal for small businesses and includes tools for accounting, sales, and inventory management.

19. Drupal ERP

Drupal ERP is an open-source ERP system built on the Drupal CMS. It's highly customizable and suitable for businesses looking for a flexible solution.

20. Opentaps

Opentaps is an open-source ERP and CRM system designed for small to medium-sized businesses. It includes features for inventory, sales, and financial management.